

University Surgical Cluster Undergraduate Research Week

October 8 – 13, 2012

NUHS Tower Block

Thank you for your participation & strong support shown towards our Undergraduates during the USC Undergraduate Research Week which saw an attendance of over 450 participants.

USC organized the weeklong event to celebrate the wonderful work that our Undergraduates have put in to develop their interest in Surgery.

The event showcased an exhibition of 30 posters put together by 36 Medical Students. Additionally, daily Poster Presentations by our Undergraduates were conducted and judged by our Panel of Judges.

Best 5 Poster Presenters were selected for Oral Presentations during the Finale which was graced by Guest of Honor, Assoc Prof Yeoh Khay Guan (Dean of Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine) who gave away the Certificates of Awards. We were also much honored to have the presence of Prof John Wong (Vice Provost, NUS), Assoc Prof George Yip (Asst Dean, Research & Graduate Studies) and Assoc Prof Marie-Veronique Clement (Asst Dean, Undergraduate Education) graced the event.

Research activity allows our Undergraduates to explore new areas and discover new information and knowledge, which will help to make the future of Medicine better.

The research engagement ranged from Basic Science, Clinical Trials, Epidemiological Studies, Health Economics to Case Reports and Reviews.

USC looks forward to continuously provide this platform for our Undergraduates with the best opportunity to learn the tricks and skills in conducting research projects, introducing them to the exploratory side of medicine and hopefully to entice them with greater interest to pursue this quest in the future.
